Renderings have been released for the newly topped-out 450 Warren St., a five-story condo development in Gowanus. The 18-unit building is being developed by Tankhouse and was designed by the architecture firm SO-IL. According to the architects, 450 Warren will have a green-and-white masonry construction. The building is two blocks from the Bergen Street subway station, which is serviced by the F and G trains, according to New York YIMBY.
